

HELP YOUR CHILD LEARN TO READ

Read books your child likes. This helps them develop a love for books and reading.

Use silly voices and voice effects. This helps children engage with the story and feel excited about reading.

Point to words as you read so your child can follow along. Doing this helps set the idea that words are where the story comes from.

Talk about the pictures. Ask your child to name what they see in the pictures and talk about what the images show as they relates to the story.

Relate the story to life. Show your child how things in the book relate to things that happen in real life.

Answer questions. If your child asks a question about the story, stop and answer it. This will keep them engaged and interested.

Read more difficult books aloud. Once your child learns to read, keep reading out loud to them. You can read books that are above their reading level to encourage further improvement.

Listen to your child read out loud. This helps them understand the story.

NEVER STOP READING

Praise your child's reading. Offering praise builds confidence.

Make reading time part of your daily routine. This lets your child know reading is part of life.
